This conclusion was confirmed, within the errors of observation, by measurements just before and after the close of excitation. The only previous instances where this relation has been experimentally established so far as we know are to be found in Waggoners2 studies of phosphorescence of short duration and in our recent paper on the luminescence of kunzite. 3 Where, as in these measurements, determinations have to be made through a very wide range and at exceedingly low intensities, doubts naturally arise as to the accuracy of the data for the lowest values. That in the present case the foot of the decay curves, where the brightness is reduced to a few thousandths of the initial intensity, is determined with a precision of the same order as that for higher values may be seen from Fig. 3 (Curve BB), in which the portion of the...
