Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from The Training of Teachers in Austria Training, Vol. 2 It is a pleasure to be able to place before American and English teachers so clear and concise an account of the training of teachers in a foreign country as Dr. Hannak has kindly consented to prepare for the Educational Monograph series. In the United States the provision made for the training of teachers is insufficient and lamentably defective. Our colleges are in large measure to blame for this state of affairs, for they have almost uniformly neglected to recognize pedagogics as worthy of a place in the curriculum and so have contributed to the spread of the utterly false notion that any one who possesses a fair knowledge of subject matter is competent to teach it, particularly to young children. Even Hrabanus Maurus with his scienti plenitudinem et vit rectitudinem et eruditionis perfetionem, had a higher ideal than this. Added to this is the fact that the majority of our normal schools, both public and private, have made pretentions far beyond the knowlege and ability of those engaged in them to support. The result has been a very low standard of professional efficiency and a correspondingly low tone in educational thought and educational journalism. Recently more encouraging signs have appeared and earnest men and women. East and West, are determined that improvement and development must take place. Even to-day this movement is gathering force and will eventually sweep from its track the lingering products of ignorance and bigotry. Dr. Hannak s paper is offered as a contribution to the literature of this movement. It has been translated from the German by Edgar D. Shimer, Ph.D.,...
